“Merely the top 20% of students who crack the tough IIT entrance examination and can stand among the best anywhere in the world.”

... says Infosys chairman emeritus NR Narayana Murthy.

Even this poor quality takes a heavy toll on the students. They gyrate through school, home, coaching centre and back home, wasting valuable time and energy in long commutes. Coping with conflicting examining board syllabus and the coaching curriculum and with no possibility of any entertainment or time for developing linguistic and life skills, often leads to physical and learning fatigue.

The government has changed the pattern of IIT entrance tests. Only the top 1,50,000 students in the combined merit list drawn up on the all India basis can write the advanced test. They must also satisfy the condition of being amongst the top 20% percentile of whichever board examination they take. Student's performance in school, thus becomes an important constituent of the admission process.

Resonance is one of the leading institutes in the country in competitive coaching, with more than 3200 selections in the IITs in 2012, and more than 9300 selections in the JEE Mains in 2013 with several ranks in the top 100. In the field of Medical coaching, Resonance has produced 103 rankers in the first year itself, with 11 students in the top 2000.

“As leaders in IIT JEE test prep domain, we at Resonance feel obliged to reinvent ourselves to be able to provide holistic support so that our students' success not only improves in JEE but also in whatever they do in lives beyond school years.”

-Mr. RK Verma, MD & CEO, Resonance, leaders in IIT JEE

Taking note of the new JEE pattern, Resonance has in a pre-emptive move, launched in partnership with SelaQui International School at Dehradun, India's first fully integrated residential two year program [XI & XII].

‘Resonance GURUKUL’ an elite program for outstanding students, starting April 2013 for students aspiring for IIT Entrance Examination and NEET (Medical Entrance) 2015.
